The Charades: Tulare’s Ambassadors Of Song

If you’ve lived in Tulare long enough (starting in 1956 to be exact), chances are you’ve danced the night away to the sounds of The Charades in concert. From school dances, to concerts and package shows, to nightclubs, Policeman Balls, weddings and school reunions, The Charades music has been synonymous with Tulare and Tulare County for over 60 years.

Rhythm & Blues was the music of the day in 1956, when five teenagers from Tulare Union High School decided to form their own singing group, originally known as The Latin Knights. Their first gigs were of course local school assemblies and dances.

The members of The Latin Knights, consisted of Manuel Cisneros, Alfi Quintero, Joe Moreno and brothers Leon and Raymond Baradat. “We sang with a piano player sometimes,” founding member Ray Baradat reminisced in 1987. During that same reminiscence, founding member Sylvester “Syl” Grigsby, a Latin Knight/Charade since 1957, recalled “We did a lot of doo-wooping. Our voices were basically our instruments.” A dance band would play during the school dances, and during the break The Latin Knights would come on stage and sing the Rock & Roll hits of the day.

In 1957, Cisneros, Quintero and Moreno left the group. The Baradat brothers found replacements in new members Sylvester “Syl” Grigsby, Alex Pilkington and Will Johnson, and The Latin Knights continued. In 1958, Ray’s older brother Leon left the group in order to work and enter college.

As their singing continued, in 1959 the group realized that they were missing out on many job opportunities not having a band, so the decision was made to form a band to augment the singers. The Latin Knights band consisted of Easy Pena on guitar, Iggy Perez on drums and Henry King on bass, later adding Eddie Cuellar on guitar and sax.

With a band to back them now, The Latin Knights were able to line up more and more gigs, becoming popular enough to record for both Swingin’ Records and Weber Records in L.A. While unfortunately none of their songs were released at the time, they however had “made it,” performing in several travelling rock-n-roll shows.

In late 1959, member Alex Pilkington left the group to join the U.S. Army, although he would return to the band in 1961.

In Memory
Lavern Butler was brought on to replace Pilkington and continued with the group when Pilkington returned. In 1962, Will Johnson left the group and his brother Johnny “Buddy” Johnson stepped in to fill the vacancy. The year 1962 also brought another recording date, as well as a name change. Anthony Hilder, a well known record producer from Los Angeles, reached out to the group in hopes of recording them. By late 1962, The Latin Knights were in the recording studios of L.A. once again for several sessions with Hilder. It was at this time that Hilder changed the group’s name to The Charades.

The Charades continued to perform and record under their new name. In 1963, Lavern Butler left the group in order to form his own. The year 1963 also saw the recording and release of The Charades’ biggest hit, “Please Be My Love Tonight,” the song which they are still known for today.

And as they say, the rest is musical history. Over the next 30 years, The Charades continued to perform steadily, cutting records, performing with stars such as The Coasters, Chuck Berry and Connie Francis, even recording songs for a movie soundtrack. And as with most groups, personnel changes continued to happen as well. Ray Baradat took a two-year hiatus when he was drafted by the U.S. Army and sent to Vietnam. More musicians were added to the group, like guitarist Tom Johnston, who later formed the group, The Doobie Brothers. In 1983, Sally Watson became the first female to join the group.

While The Charades stopped performing full-time in 1992, they still regroup several times a year for special functions. In 2008, founding members and best friends Ray & Syl, travelled to New Jersey where they were invited to perform at a sold-out oldies concert. They received a standing ovation when they stepped out on stage and sang their hit “Please Be My Love Tonight,” 45 years after first recording the song. To this day it is still a much requested song on East Coast oldies radio.

Earlier this month, they performed for their “2017 World Tour, One Night Only,” playing for Porterville High School’s Class of 1962 reunion. They released their latest CD, “Echoes Of Yesterday” in 2015, which can be purchased at the THM Gift Shop along with other great Charades recordings.

The Charades and their music are so deeply interwoven into the fabric of Tulare, they will forever be regarded as Tulare’s Ambassadors of Song.

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Once They Were Eagles: The Men of the Black Sheep Squadron ($19.95)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Another great account of the men of Pappy Boyington’s Black Sheep Squadron. What sets this book apart, is the fact that at the time of its writing, author Frank Walton located the thirty-four surviving members of the fifty-one original Black Sheep, in order to interview them and include their recollections in the book.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Team That Forever Changed Baseball and America: The 1947 Brooklyn Dodger ($26.95)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Taken from the book cover, “Of all the teams in the annals of baseball, only a select few can lay claim to historic significance. One of those teams is the 1947 Brooklyn Dodgers.” Not only is the book a great account of the Dodgers’ (and baseball’s) historic 1947 season, it is also the first book to offer biographies of every team player that season. Of special note, is Tulare’s own Vic Lombardi.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stories From Joe Doctor Tulare County’s Country Journalist ($25.00)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lovingly compiled by Tulare County historians Alan George and Terry Ommen, this book brings a select number of Joe Doctor’s original articles for the Exeter Sun newspaper back to print for everyone to enjoy. Reminisce once again with ‘Tulare County’s country journalist.’</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sister Vayda’s Song ($13.00)</td>

</tr>
<tr>
<td>Collection of poems from Tulare’s Poet Laureate, Wilma McDaniel. Originally published in 1982, this collection was called “a small masterpiece” by Sojourner. By the way, the book’s photograph of the author was taken by none other than Tulare’s photographer laureate, Mr. Don LeBaron!</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A Primer for Buford ($18.00)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Another great collection of poems from Wilma McDaniel. Taken from the book cover, “...McDaniel’s realization that the number of people who can remember the Okie experience and the life it led to is dwindling rapidly. The book takes the shape of a poetry primer for a young man who needs to learn about his own heritage.” Folk singer Pete Seeger remarked “I wish there were more poets like Wilma McDaniel. One wants to return to her book again and again. Little slices of real truth, to be long savored.”</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Last Dust Storm ($13.00)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wilma McDaniel’s third book of poems from Hanging Loose Press. From the book cover, “Beneath their calm surface lie profound feeling, insight, sophistication, and often a sly humor at the expense of those who would patronize working people.”</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Borrowed Coats ($13.00)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>From the book cover, “Borrowed Coats, the fourth Hanging Loose collection of Wilma McDaniel’s work in the last twenty years, once again demonstrates the understated power of this poet who began writing as a child and has never stopped. Her work fuses the overheard conversation of real people with memories of a Depression childhood, a highly personal spiritual insight, and sharp observations of life in today’s San Joaquin Valley.”</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Down an Old Road: The Poetic Life of Wilma Elizabeth McDaniel – DVD ($20.00)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2001 film by Chris Evans. Evans does a great job packing a powerful story into a short 34 minutes. As mentioned in the film, “McDaniel’s verse can reveal the extraordinary in an everyday scene at K-Mart and finds the sacred in a blowing curtain.”</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Highway 99: The History of California’s Main Street ($18.95)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Author Stephen H. Provost has done a great service to history by putting together this full portrait of Our historic Highway 99! Taken from the book’s cover, “Before it was a modern freeway, California’s State Highway 99 was the main street of California, a simple two-lane road that passed through the downtowns of every city between the Mexican border and the Oregon state line.”</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Daniel James Brown, author of the NY Times #1 bestseller “The Boys In The Boat,” now brings us a compelling and gripping narrative on the Donner Party and their ill-fated journey. From the book cover, “...Daniel James Brown sheds new light on one of the most legendary events in American history. Following every painful footstep of Sarah Graves’ journey with the Donner Party, Brown produces a tale both spellbinding and richly informative.”</td>

Dorothy Warren — Volunteer Spotlight

The Tulare Historical Museum is pleased to have Dorothy Warren as our “Volunteer Spotlight” for Fall 2017. Dorothy volunteers in the THM Gift Shop.

Dorothy Serpa was born in Tulare on July 22, 1929 to parents Manuel and Millian Serpa. Dorothy grew up on the family dairy farm on Cartmill and Enterprise and attended Enterprise School. She then graduated from Tulare Union High School in 1947. Dorothy’s extra-curricular activities did not include school, but rather going home every day and working on the dairy. Growing up a tomboy Dorothy helped out in many capacities, but “thank God, I never had to milk cows though!” Dorothy remarked with a laugh.

Dorothy has one sister, Velma, who is also a Warren. Not only are Dorothy and Velma sisters, they are sister-in-laws as well, because they both married brothers...Ed for Velma and Jim for Dorothy. Jim and Dorothy were married for 62 years until Jim’s passing in 2007. The two families farmed together for 40 years as Warren Bros. Farms. Dorothy and Jim built their home on the same spot as Dorothy’s original childhood home. The farm focused on dairy, cotton, corn and alfalfa.

For 20 years (1949-1969), Dorothy worked for Valley Motor Lines on Cross Street in their office. Then when the business sold to Western Milk, Dorothy continued working there for three more years.

‘Activity’ of any sort has always been a big part of Dorothy’s life. She bowled for many years on both women’s league and mixed league bowling teams, dancing on Saturday nights, and watching a lot of football games with her three sons (Steve, Rick, and Tom) while they grew up. By the way, all three sons still live in Tulare, and Dorothy now has five grandsons, one granddaughter and one great-granddaughter.

Dorothy also volunteered for the Ag Show for many years every February, making roughly 50 food trays every day for all of the volunteer offices. She also volunteered at the Ag grounds throughout the year when needed. Dorothy focused her volunteer efforts on the local Cabrillo Club as well.

A dear friend, Bernice Morris, initially got Dorothy interested in volunteering at the Museum. Bernice was already a volunteer in the THM Gift Shop. Once Dorothy began volunteering, the two would work together on many occasions, even playing a game or two of cards during a lull in business! Dorothy explains, “I don’t remember when I started volunteering at the Museum, but it’s always nice when people come in that used to live here and want to talk about growing up in Tulare. I enjoy that.”

Thank you Dorothy for your great volunteering spirit. You make all our guests feel right at home the minute they walk through our doors and shop in the Gift Shop. We are glad that you are part of the THM family!
